The JLA is one of the most iconic and beloved superhero teams in the world. The team has been featured in numerous comic books, television shows, and movies. The JLA is a symbol of hope and justice, and the team continues to inspire fans around the world.

Issue 167

Issue 167 of Justice League of America was published in November 1987. The issue was written by Keith Giffen and J.M. DeMatteis, and illustrated by Kevin Maguire and Al Vey. The issue features the team fighting against the villainous Starro the Conqueror.

Starro is a giant, starfish-like alien who is capable of controlling the minds of others. Starro has been a major threat to the JLA in the past, and the team is determined to stop him from conquering Earth.

The issue begins with Starro attacking the city of Metropolis. The JLA arrives to stop Starro, but they are quickly overwhelmed by the alien's mind control powers.

One by one, the JLA members fall under Starro's control. Superman, Batman, Wonder Woman, The Flash, Green Lantern, Aquaman, and Martian Manhunter are all turned against their former allies.

Only two members of the JLA remain free from Starro's control: Zatanna and Cyborg. Zatanna is a powerful magician, and Cyborg is a half-human, half-machine superhero. Together, Zatanna and Cyborg must find a way to defeat Starro and save their teammates.

The issue ends with a cliffhanger, as Zatanna and Cyborg prepare to face off against Starro.
