Children also have the opportunity to participate in special events, such as a talent show and a dance party.

The camp offers a variety of activities, including arts and crafts, canoeing, archery, hiking, swimming, fishing, and campfires.

The camp is more than just a place for kids to have fun. It's also a place where they can learn new skills, build confidence, and make lifelong memories. Many of the children who attend the camp have never had the opportunity to participate in activities like canoeing, archery, or hiking. The camp provides a safe and supportive environment for them to try new things and challenge themselves.

The camp also helps children to build confidence. Many of the children who attend the camp have been bullied or teased because of their appearance. The camp provides a safe and supportive environment where they can feel accepted for who they are. The camp staff is trained to help children deal with bullying and teasing.

The camp also helps children to make lifelong memories. Many of the children who attend the camp form lifelong friendships with other children who have craniofacial differences. The camp provides a unique opportunity for children to connect with others who understand what they're going through.

Toby Day of Surgery Fren Adventure Camp is a truly special place. It's a place where children with craniofacial differences can learn new skills, build confidence, and make lifelong memories. The camp is free to attend, and it's open to children ages 7 to 17. If you have a child with a craniofacial difference, I encourage you to apply for the camp. It's an experience that your child will never forget.
